

(Almost) Everything I Touch in the House, 19. October 2020, by Melinda Rieder

my phone which is an alarm clock snooze /snooze / book Jack Kerouac: The Dharma Bums:

blinds / balcony door handle / door handle/ toilet flush / soap / disinfe ctant spray / doorhan dle / my boyfriends heart with a pi cture of my butt / new underpants / pants / bra / shirt / jumper / socks / kitchen door / apple / knife/ wood en board / kitchen counter / bowl/o atmeal glass / milk box / kitchen c hair / kitchen table / my phone wh ich is a newspaper / water tap / spo nge / dishwashing soap / dish towe l / disinfectant spray / water kettle / teabag mint / cup / kitchen door /m y rooms door / laptop keyboard / to ilet flush again / maybe a little pee/toilet paper/ soap / disinfectant spr ay / my phone which is a waste of time / bathroom door / shower /s oap / shampoo / razorblade / towels

/ handcream/ facecream/ body crea m /kitchen door / water kettle/same teabag / cup /my phone which is m y weapon against greedy landlord / kitchen door / tomato / zucchini / sw eat potatoe / sharp knife / rice box / pan / coconut fat glass / normal kni fe / plate / fork / upon the subject o f a curfew with my flatmates/ upon the pronunciation of the word curf ew in the english language/ bag/ m ask / fifty euro bill / wallet/ keys/fr ont door handle /but never: a perso n.no body, no back, no shoulder,no face, no hand, no person, no body

“What is a rainbow, Lord? A hoop / For the lowly” “But let the mind beware that though the flesh be bugged... the circumstances of existence are pretty glorious”

to ot
hp
as te/
to ot
hb rush

last sunday two flatmates got tested positive for COVID-19, which resulted in isolation and many discussions and buying two disinfectant sprays and it was repeatedly suggested to disinfect everything we touch